

RNID TINNITUS Helpline

The Helpline has now been moved to London. This has enabled RNID to expand the service and provide additional improvements. There will be greater accessibility and more capacity to the service, improving the quality of life of an even greater number of people.

This enhanced one-stop information service will have major benefits for callers:

- Opening hours: Monday to Friday 9am – 5pm
- Expert advice from specialist advisers on the latest developments in tinnitus treatments and new equipment.
- New and more extensive range of information materials.
- Expert advisory panel.
- Closer links with organisations and individuals in the tinnitus field.

The relocation of the Tinnitus Helpline to London will allow RNID to devote more staff time to answering calls and directly supporting people with tinnitus. RNID has also committed more than half a million pounds to medical and scientific research into the condition and is funding a team of experts around the world to work towards new clinical treatments and therapies.

The British Tinnitus Association (BTA) supports the RNID Tinnitus Helpline's expansion of its services and additional improvements to help more people with their tinnitus.
